FAU ranked in “The 25 Best Online Masters in Curriculum and Instruction Degree Programs” by TBS (The Best Schools). Our online M.Ed. in Curriculum and Instruction degree in the Department of Curriculum, Culture, and Educational Inquiry was selected based on the quality of the program, types of courses provided, and faculty strength, as well as school awards, rankings, and reputation.

Your road map to success begins at Florida Atlantic University (FAU) where College of Education faculty deliver outstanding online instruction at the graduate level with courses that meet national benchmarks for quality. For those that are dedicated to a pathway of excellence and distinction, your journey begins here.

The M.Ed. in Curriculum and Instruction is a 36-credit online degree program that explores issues of curriculum, instruction, and assessment that affect educators at every level of schooling and within educational organizations. Program coursework also addresses issues of diversity, and provides students with a global perspective on education.

The M.Ed. is designed with a balance of theoretical and practical applications through research projects and critical writing assignments that provide the groundwork for future success at the doctoral level. This degree is highly recommended for those who want a balance of subject matter knowledge and pedagogical knowledge that will help them teach at any level of education. Students can complete this degree in two years with support and assistance from our experienced faculty.
